MILLION EMIGRANTS CAME VIA NEW YORK

Actual Figures For Past Fiscal Year Not Yet Attainable But Guesses Have Been Made.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, June 30.—Though the actual figures will not be available until next week it is confidently believed that the immigration record for the port of New York for the year ending today will eclipse all previous figures. In the opinion of Commissioner Waltham the figures will reach the enormous total of 1,000,000, or about equal to the number of immigrants who entered all the ports of the nation during the preceding year. The immigrants this year have come from every country of Europe, the Austro-Hungarians predominating. Next come the Italians, of whom 25,000, or an average of two hundred to every 10,000 of Italy's population, came to the United States during the year. The number of excluded immigrants has likewise declined the records of all previous years.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE SLIDES INTO WATER

Immense New Sixteen Thousand Ton Battleship Given First Dip At Camden, New Jersey.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Camden, N. J., June 30.—The new 16,000-ton battleship New Hampshire, built for the United States government by the New York Shipbuilding company, was successfully launched from the yards here today. Thousands cheered and waved their hats as the huge hull plunged into the waters of the Delaware. Among those who witnessed the spectacle were many distinguished citizens of New Hampshire, together with naval officers and representatives of the navy department at Washington. The guests of honor included Governor McLane of New Hampshire and his staff.

The vessel was christened by Miss Hazel McLane, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Governor McLane, who broke a bottle of champagne on the bow of the ship as it started down the ways. Informal speeches followed a luncheon.

The battleship New Hampshire will be a powerful addition to Uncle Sam's navy. She is of 16,000 tons burden, with a length of 435 feet and extreme breadth of 76 feet 10 inches. She will be required to steam 18 knots for four consecutive hours.

The main battery of the New Hampshire will consist of four 12-inch breech-loading rifles and twelve 7-inch breech-loading rifles. In the secondary battery will be twenty 3-inch field pieces, two 30-calibre automatics and two 30-calibre machine guns.

The hull of the battleship is of steel throughout. It is protected at the water-line by a complete belt of armor nine feet, three inches wide, having a maximum thickness of eleven inches for about two hundred feet amidships. Forward and aft of this the maximum thickness is nine inches within the limit of magazines, from which point the thickness is gradually decreased to four inches at the stem and stern. The 12-inch barbettes extend from the protected deck to about four feet above the main deck, and consist of ten inches of armor in front and seven and one-half inches in the rear above the gun deck.

The engines are of the vertical twin-screw, four-cylinder, triple expansion type, of a combined horsepower of 16,500. There are twelve boilers, placed in six water-tight compartments. There are three funnels, each 100 feet high above the base line.

ROMANCE OF PRINCESS ELVIRA THOUGHT AT END

The Pretender Don Carlos Seems To Have Succeeded In Endeavors To Have Daughter Retire.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Rome, June 30.—The report that Princess Elvira, daughter of Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender, has been persuaded to quit Count Filippo Folchi, the married artist with whom she eloped ten years ago and to enter a convent, has been the staple of gossip this week. The reliability of the report is questioned by many, but this, perhaps, is due to the fact that similar reports have been circulated before and have always turned out false. It is known, however, that the Spanish pretender would move heaven and earth is he could put his daughter in a convent and it is not at all improbable that he will at last succeed in his efforts. In seeking to bring this about Don Carlos is not actuated by any feeling of solicitude for his daughter's moral welfare. What he is after is to retain possession of her immense fortune, which he would be able to do if she entered a convent for life.

In his efforts to break the relations between Princess Elvira and Folchi, Don Carlos has received the strong support of the Vatican authorities. His other daughter, Princess Massina, has also been active in his aid and the fact that Princess Elvira is now staying with Princess Massina in this city tends to substantiate the reports that the runaway princess has finally decided to quit her paramour. At the time of the elopement the Vatican was thrown into a ferment. Folchi's uncle, the cardinal, sent one of the most prominent members of the Jesuit society to see and persuade the princess of the folly of her ways. The Princess Massina also tried to persuade her sister, "Vivvy" to go into a convent. But it was a difficult plan to carry out. Princess Elvira is the one member of the family whose religious views have been less bigoted than those of the rest of her kin. Her motto is, "everything is well lost for love," and she carried it out.

After the elopement, Don Carlos lost no time in disowning his daughter. To his supporters he issued the following letter: "You are my family, my beloved children. I therefore think it my duty to inform you that another of my children, she who was Infanta Donna Elvira, is dead to us all. May God in his infinite mercy have pity on that unhappy soul."

Don Carlos' alacrity to disown Elvira as soon as the elopement became known brought out considerable adverse comment from those who were acquainted with his own clouded past. It was not long before the motives of the pretender were disclosed by the lawsuit which Princess Elvira instituted against him for restitution of her rights under her mother's will. Don Carlos, who makes his home in a superb palace in Venice, is renowned throughout Europe for his extravagance. Though his private fortune is immense, so also are his expenditures and the income from his daughter's large fortune undoubtedly would come in handy to him. The dispute over the fortune has never been definitely settled and will not be until Don Carlos surrenders the money or succeeds in his designs to force his daughter into a convent. The princess is perfectly well acquainted with the motives of her father and if she falls into his plan it will be a surprise to her friends. It is stated that the princess has consumption in the last stage and if this is true it may offer an explanation for her decision to retire from the world.

COOPER REBUKED BY VOTE OF CONGRESS YESTERDAY

Unusual Action Taken Towards The First District Man In Open Session.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—Representative Cooper of Racine was subjected to an unusual disciplinary rebuke by the house of representatives yesterday as a result of a controversy over the question as to changes he made in remarks which he uttered on the floor Thursday, and which, in modified form, appeared in the congressional record yesterday morning.

It was apparent that the house took some delight in administering this rebuke to the Racine member, because of the course he has pursued of late in taking occasions for casting reflections upon members relative to the course of legislation, notably in his recent reflection upon Representative Hepburn regarding the express company amendment to the rate bill. He engaged in a controversy with Representative Danzell Thursday relative to a rule which was submitted by the republicans of the committee on rules regarding the proceedings for the closing hours of the session. The rule simply provided that conference reports on bills might be adopted before they are printed in the record. This suggestion is not an uncommon one, but is the regular rule of congress after an adjournment day, but it was fiercely attacked by Mr. Cooper, who, by inference at least, attributed improper motives to the leaders in seeking to get through legislation before it had been seen by members of the house. This suggestion was resented by Mr. Danzell, who was speaking for the rules committee, and in criticizing the remarks of Cooper Mr. Danzell said that if he thought as meanly of his colleagues in the house as Mr. Cooper did, he would retire from the body. Mr. Danzell complained that the changes made by Mr. Cooper in the printed speech as it appeared in the record did injustice to him, in that it changed the sense of the matter to which Mr. Danzell objected.

"I deny," said Mr. Cooper, "that the substantial character of my speech was changed in any particular, and the gentleman can insert it all. But the report which came to me was so ungrammatical and distorted and mistaken in many ways that I tried to make it as smooth as possible, but it contains the exact ideas I expressed on the floor."

"Before I left the house last evening," replied Mr. Danzell in a voice that trembled with rage, "I went to the stenographer's desk and obtained a copy of the speech delivered by the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. Cooper), which I hold in my hand now. It is a remarkably well reported speech. There are few inaccuracies of grammar. The right of the gentleman to correct these inaccuracies can deny. His right to make insertions and to take out parts in so far as they do not affect the meaning and purpose of the speech no one will deny, but no gentleman has the right to change the substantial character of a speech which involves the sense and meaning of another gentleman's speech. Mr. Cooper in his remarks yesterday impugned my motive, and whether or not the changes are substantial I will let the house and not the gentleman from Wisconsin judge."

"Mr. Cooper said, in answer to my statement, that the gentleman says that this is an effort to carry out the spirit of the rule. In my judgment this is an effort, distinctly and deliberately to violate the spirit of the rule." If that was not an imputation upon my motive then I am unable to understand the English language. The gentleman from Wisconsin cunningly changed that sentence to read this way: 'In my judgment, this is an effort which distinctly and deliberately violates the spirit of the rule.'"

"Mr. Cooper also said: 'We go to work worse than a lot of town supervisors ever do and worse than anybody anywhere pretending to ordinary intelligence.' The gentleman from Wisconsin did not allow that sentence to remain in the record."

"I allow the house to judge as between the gentleman and myself as to whether or not he changed the substance of his speech, as to whether or not he did a dishonorable thing, not only with respect to the house in the mangling of its records, but an indecent thing in respect to his colleague, whose motive he impugned upon the floor of the house when he comes in the silence of his chamber to read over what he has said here, and has not the courage to repeat it, but deliberately, no one else being by, took it out of the record."

"Mr. Cooper made a reply, denying that he had impugned the motive of Mr. Danzell, or anybody else, and explaining what he had intended to say. At the conclusion of Mr. Cooper's explanation a vote was taken and the house, by a considerable majority, expunged Mr. Cooper's speech from the record and put in its place his remarks as taken down originally by the official stenographer. The exact vote by which this unusual proceeding was accomplished was 66 to 43."

JANESVILLE GIRL

FINDS HER MOTHER

STOLEN BY HER FATHER WHEN

A BABY.

STRANGE STORY IS TOLD

Amy Huggins, who until last April never knew she had a mother and sister living and until two weeks ago was employed in the Hough Porch Shade factory and lived with her aunt on Locust street, is now in Portland, Oregon, with her long-lost mother and new-found sister. The story is one both pathetic and wonderful. The Morning Oregonian of Portland of last Saturday prints the following story of the romance, which is of exceptional interest to Janesville people. It was through Joe Raby of Hanover that the mother located her long-lost daughter and it was by a letter written to Fred Raby of 157 Racine street and delivered by Mrs. Raby to Amy Huggins that the girl discovered she had a mother. Her father is Alex. Huggins of Beloit.

The Story
"After a separation of more than 15 years, during which the mother only hoped that her child was still living while the latter fully believed the mother dead, Mrs. Rose Edwards of 625 East Seventh street and her 19-year-old daughter, Amy Huggins, were reunited at the union depot in this city Thursday morning.

"My child, my own darling, little girl I knew it was you. I would have known you anywhere," exclaimed Mrs. Edwards as she threw her arms around her long-lost daughter, and drew her close in a motherly embrace.

"Mother!" cried the young girl, to whose lips the word had been a stranger almost since babyhood, and burying her face in her newly found parent's bosom, she wept silent tears of joy. In one brief instant she had recovered not only a mother, but a younger sister whom she later met as a complete stranger, as well as a home in which she will be welcome as long as she chooses to remain.

The Reunited Family
"The reunited family consists of the mother, who only last September, after 13 years of single blessedness, embarked again on the sea of matrimony by wedding John M. Edwards, a local blacksmith and horseshoer; Amy, the long-lost daughter, and Rose Ella Lee Huggins, who celebrated her seventeenth birthday on the day that restored to her and her mother and sister and daughter they had almost ceased to hope would ever be found.

The story which had its sequel when Miss Amy Huggins completed her long journey across the continent alone to the home and mother of her infancy is a short one, and, except for the happy reunion, one of little novelty. The present Mrs. Edwards 29 years ago became the bride of Alex. Huggins, a Portland blacksmith. After two children were born to them their domestic differences, growing out of the husband's intemperance, became so serious that a separation became necessary.

"Mrs. Huggins left her husband and, placing her little daughters, in charge of her mother, Mrs. A. Z. Hall of this city, started out to earn a living for herself and them. Stricken with remorse, Huggins attempted to effect a reconciliation, but his wife was firm in her refusal to live with him again, though she did not insist upon a divorce.

Takes Child From Grandmother
"At last Huggins in desperation took a policeman and, going to the house of Mrs. Hall, demanded possession of the older child. Mrs. Hall, awed by the sight of the officer, yielded to his demand. Huggins placed a tag around the neck of little Amy and shipped her back to his sister in Janesville, Wis. Tradition has it that the little girl was lost for two whole days at the union depot in Omaha, but finally reached her destination without serious mishap.

"Then Huggins began to bring pressure to bear on his wife, offering to restore the child to her if she would return to him. Much as her heart was wrung by the loss of her daughter, Mrs. Huggins indignantly refused to be driven back to the man she had learned to despise. Finally Huggins gave up and returned to his former home in Wisconsin.

"Mrs. Huggins, as time wore on, made repeated efforts to locate the missing child, but, handicapped by lack of money to prosecute the search in person and having no relatives in the east to whom she could entrust the matter, finally resigned herself to her loss, but kept ever alive in her heart the hope that some day she would recover the child again.

How She Was Found
"This was the way the matter stood last fall when a brother of John Raby of Portland, Joe Raby, from Hanover, Wis., whose wife is a sister of Mrs. Edwards, came out to the Lewis and Clark exposition and visited the Raby home. The brother's home is in Hanover, Wis., and with-out consulting his sister-in-law, Mr. Raby commissioned him to search for the lost girl, who was supposed to be somewhere in Wisconsin.

"A few weeks after his brother returned to Wisconsin, Mr. Raby received news that Huggins was in Beloit, Wis., but that the daughter he had stolen from his former wife had been living for years with his sister in Janesville. Mrs. Edwards quickly heard that Mr. Raby had heard good news and persisted in knowing the facts. A brief correspondence between the mother and her missing daughter resulted, and then Mr. Edwards came forward to solve the problem.

"Tell the little girl that if she wishes to come out here and live with us, I will send her the money for her ticket, and she can find a home with us as long as she needs one," he said.

Daughter Goes to Portland
"When this news was communicated to Miss Huggins in Wisconsin she immediately packed up her belongings, bade good-bye to the good aunt who had all but taken the place of a mother, and bravely set out toward the Pacific. The rest of the story has been told.

"I could hardly wait till I saw my mother and sister," she informed her relatives here when she arrived. "I got the first letter from my mother at noon. I was working in Janesville and tried to stay at my post until evening, but I simply couldn't. I asked for the afternoon off and taking a street car rode to Beloit, where my father was, and confronted him with the letter.

"He had always told me that I had had a mother and sister, but they were dead. When he heard about the letter he admitted that he had deceived me. I told him that I was going to see my mother. He made no objections, and so, thanks to my new father's generosity, here I am."

Reception in Her Honor
"Miss Amy Huggins is a petite, hazel-eyed, brown-haired girl, quite pretty, and several people who knew her when she was a child corroborate the mother's declaration, saying that she has changed but little in the 14 years of her absence from Portland. Since their reunion she and her mother have been nearly inseparable companions.

"The girl's father has remarried since his return to Wisconsin and now has a wife and several children there.

A reception in honor of Miss Huggins will be given at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. A. Z. Hall, tonight, at which her many relatives in this city will renew their acquaintance with the child they knew many years ago."

Name of Beef Cut
"Porterhouse steak," says Dr. Elyria Catter in the Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette, "is the sirloin and tenderloin combined. Porterhouse steak is a term arising, according to the Standard dictionary, from a New York eating house; but I believe the name was derived from the owner who kept Porter's tavern, which is still extant in North Cambridge, Mass. This tavern was famous in its day for its steaks, and a favorite resort for roadsters."

Hard to Cure
"I'm glad to hear that Flatman has inherited a fortune and bought a good farm with it. How does he like living in the country?"

"Splendidly. But when the first day of last May came he forgot himself and went around absently looking for a new farm, under the impression that he had got to move."

TETANUS POISONING

AND THE PREVENTIVE

Local Physician Writes. On Timely

Topic—Beware Of All Gun

Powder Injuries.

The Fourth of July will soon be here and young America will celebrate as usual with toy pistols, giant crackers and miniature cannon. Numerous accidents will result and hundreds will die in the terrible convulsions of tetanus. The one great cause for this is that the layman does not know the danger of the wounds produced. They do not know that the severity of the wound has anything to do with tetanus. A minute abrasion, due to the unexpected discharge of a blank cartridge, or an apparent slight skin wound produced by the sudden explosion of a small cracker, may produce a case of tetanus. Here is where the great danger lies. The wound may be slight, the pain trivial, and it may comfortably heal, giving no further trouble until the convulsions of tetanus occur. All wounds should be thoroughly washed, kept open and tetanus antitoxine administered hypodermically. Why give the antitoxine? Simply because it is the only sure prophylactic measure which we possess. A wound may be apparently thoroughly cleansed, kept open for the air, and yet a case of tetanus result, due to the growth of some deep-seated bacilli which had not been exposed in the cleaning process. The administration of the antitoxine does no harm and in most cases prevents the development of the tetanus symptoms. The patient should insist upon its administration in every case in which the occurrence of tetanus is at all likely. When once the symptoms of lockjaw set in there is practically no hope. The administration of the antitoxine does no good because the deadly toxin produced by the bacilli has done its work. The administration of the antitoxine can not cure; it can only prevent tetanus from occurring. Remember the old saying: "An ounce of prevention is worth more than a pound of cure."

Another paragraph of your editorial might imply that the "Christian Science" school is accomplishing much in the realm of diseased minds; only, while the fact is, that very nearly, if not all, the diseases known to mankind have been healed through the intelligent application of Christian Science treatment, including malignant cancer, consumption in its advanced stages, leprosy, etc. The writer was healed of inflammatory rheumatism in your city seventeen years ago. Of course, to the Christian Scientist, all (or nearly all) diseases of the body arise from a disordered or diseased mind; and this is perhaps the reason why so many people arrive at the conclusion that Christian Science is good for mental or nervous diseases alone.

We recognize and deeply appreciate the noble efforts of physicians and surgeons to alleviate the ills of humanity; but it will surely be admitted that after four thousand years of experimenting, research and study the human race is still in a deplorable condition and that perhaps as great a percentage of sickness and death prevails as did at the beginning of this period. I feel, therefore, that all fair-minded people should welcome the advent of a system of therapeutics as safe and potent as that which Christian Science has proven to be in the brief space of forty years.

Thanking you for past courtesies, I am very respectfully yours,

PORTLAND'S GROWTH

IS CONSERVATIVE

Dr. Stuart Sheldon Of The Oregon

Metropolis Visited in

Dr. Stuart Sheldon of Portland, Oregon, has been the guest of his Aunt, Mrs. A. H. Sheldon, for a few days. Dr. Sheldon is enthusiastic over the west and particularly Oregon and Portland. "Portland is one of the future cities of the west," he said yesterday. "In fact, it is now the largest city of the northwest and while its growth is conservative it is bound to become larger and larger each year. People have a mistaken idea as to the country about Portland. It has its disadvantages, but it also has a steady growth. Living expenses are high and the average wages are not much larger than they are further east. However, I believe the city has a great future."

Dr. Sheldon is a graduate of the University and of Rush Medical college, Chicago. At the time of the breaking out of the Japanese-Russian War Dr. Sheldon was in Japan and tried to enlist in the Japanese army for naval hospital corps, but without success. He spent some years in travel through Japan and portions of China and has been located in Portland for the past two years. He left last night for Madison, his old home, and will then return to the east.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

Col. W. W. Lumpkin has entered the campaign for the United States senate against Senator Tillman of South Carolina.

Judge Frank Dale of Guthrie has announced himself a candidate for the democratic nomination for the first governor of Oklahoma. Judge Dale's brother was the democratic nominee against Governor Koch of Kansas two years ago.

Democrats of Michigan will hold their state convention at Detroit August 2.

A primary election bill, containing a provision which is intended to restrict the voting of negroes at the primaries, has just been passed by the Louisiana senate.

Ex-Senator Wellington of Maryland appears to be making a play again for the republican party leadership in his state. Wellington has been in the "down and out" class since his retirement from the senate three years ago.

In Mississippi things are shaping themselves for a warm race for the United States senate. Alignments have already been made, and partisans of both Congressman John Sharp Williams and Gov. James K. Vardaman are daily telling stories of the merits of their respective favorites.

A movement has been launched in Denver to bring both of the great national political conventions to that city two years hence.

It is said the action of Chairman J. J. Holloway of the state executive committee in calling a state convention of populists to be held in Atlanta, Ga., this week is not favored by Thomas E. Watson and other leading populists, who declare the gathering will not be a significant one.

It is expected that both Secretary Taft and Postmaster General Clegg will attend the opening of the North Carolina republican state convention at Greensboro next week.

It is expected that when Tennessee republicans meet in state convention in Nashville next week H. Clay Evans will receive the gubernatorial nomination without opposition.

The state campaign has been started in South Carolina. Dispensary is the main issue.

It is reported that Governor Goddard has agreed to keep "hands off" in the senatorial contest in Idaho.

KICKERS' KOLUM

Editor-Janesville Daily Gazette:

I have read with much interest the editorial in your issue of the 23rd entitled "Our Saturday Night." I would thank you very much for space in which to offer a few words of explanation regarding Christian Science practice. We maintain that Christian Scientists are the most law-abiding people on the face of the earth, and promptly report all cases of contagious disease to the proper health officers and obey strictly all quarantine rules, etc., prescribed by law. I have yet to learn of a case where the spread of contagion could justly be laid at the door of a Christian Scientist; but I do know of a case where a family of six fell sick with small-pox at Pewaukee, Wis., not more than a year or so ago and were all healed by Christian Science treatment. The healing was accomplished in a much shorter time than it usually takes under medical treatment and no ill effects remained. This case was under close surveillance of the health officer.

The Manual of the Mother Church, which all Christian Scientists recognize as authority, indicates that practitioners shall have cases diagnosed by an M. D. when it seems at all necessary, and in her recent dedicatory message to her church in Boston, Mrs. Eddy said:

"A genuine Christian Scientist loves Protestant and Catholic, D. D. and M. D., loves all who love God, good, and loves his enemies. It will be found that instead of opposing, such an individual subserves the interests of both medical faculty and Christianity, and they thrive together, learning that mind-power is good will toward men."

Another paragraph of your editorial might imply that the "Christian Science" school is accomplishing much in the realm of diseased minds; only, while the fact is, that very nearly, if not all, the diseases known to mankind have been healed through the intelligent application of Christian Science treatment, including malignant cancer, consumption in its advanced stages, leprosy, etc. The writer was healed of inflammatory rheumatism in your city seventeen years ago. Of course, to the Christian Scientist, all (or nearly all) diseases of the body arise from a disordered or diseased mind; and this is perhaps the reason why so many people arrive at the conclusion that Christian Science is good for mental or nervous diseases alone.

KIMBALL MISSION

ESCAPES TAXATION

Board of Review Decides That It Is

Exempt the Same As Other

Church Property.

Rev. Mary Kimball appeared before the board of review yesterday and again entered a protest against the assessment of taxes against her South Jackson street property, claiming that it should be exempt the same as other church holdings in the city. She stated that four years ago she had deeded the chapel, parsonage, and real estate, valued at $10,000 to the Free Baptist denomination with the understanding that she was to have the use of the same during her lifetime. Its continued use for religious purposes was thus guaranteed. Rev. Kimball was ordained in the Free Baptist ministry six years ago and her work has been largely among the poor and unfortunate of the city. The board of review decided to withdraw the property from the tax list and their action will meet with general approval.

Unpunctable.
On one of his expeditions into central Africa Prof. Drummond found himself among cannibals, who cast longing eyes on his person. It became necessary to make an impression, so Drummond produced a powerful magnifying glass, and after an eloquent exordium called down "fire from heaven" by setting fire to some grass by concentrating the rays of the sun through the glass. After this the natives had no appetite for a white man, and Drummond went on his way rejoicing, laden with native offerings.

...FORTY YEARS AGO...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, June 30, 1866.—Wisconsin in the War of the Rebellion.—We have just seen a circular letter from Matt. H. Carpenter, Judge Hubbell and Ex-Governor Salomon in which they speak very highly of Rev. Wm. De Loss Love's forthcoming book entitled "Wisconsin in the War of the Rebellion." These gentlemen have read the first one hundred and seventy sheets of that work and are competent judges in such matters. The book is meeting with much favor and will be so valuable that to Wisconsin men will be satisfied to be without it.

has been a long time since our citizens have been favored with a first-class musical entertainment, and it would seem as if the people were more than ready for one. They are likely to have their tastes fully gratified in the concert which comes off in Lappin's Hall on Monday evening next. The best musical talent of Beloit, Milton and Janesville will take part in it, under the leadership of Prof. N. H. Bennett. In addition to the excellence of the music promised there is another incentive to patronize this concert. The proceeds are to be devoted to the purchase of an organ for the new Baptist church. We confidently expect to see Lappin's Hall full to overflowing on Monday evening.

ELECTRICITY

for light is only expensive to people who are wasteful and careless. To you, who are naturally careful, it does not "come high."

It is economical because it can be turned off quickly when not in use. With gas or kerosene there is the temptation to let light burn when not in use, to save the bother of lighting and adjusting.

In some homes the electric light bill amounts to only one dollar per month.

Why not let us tell you more about it.

"Many old camels, carry the skins of the young ones to the market."—Talmud. And many an older merchant may perform that function for his younger, "cock-sure" competitor—if the older man has "learned things" about advertising as his years have passed.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.
Some one said recently that "men don't grow old, but become old by not growing." The sentiment, which contains more than a grain of truth, will not be generally endorsed by people who are carrying the weight of years, and who, in spite of every effort to throw off the burden are forced to admit the advent of decline.

The editor of "Phyllis" indulges in a happy way of expressing old age by speaking of men and women as "eighty years young." He refers, of course, to people who have reached this ripe age in possession of mental faculties unimpaired, and with hearts which throb in sympathy with humanity.

While it is possible to enter the shadows of life with mind and heart attuned to the busy activities of an active and restless age, it is unnatural to do so, for the allotted time of life, three score years and ten, provides for a period of rest as the journey nears its end.

There are several ages of opportunity, but none of them extend to the borderland of old age, and the man or woman who waits until forty for "something to turn up," is usually doomed to disappointment.

The preparation for life is the period of the first great opportunity and the boy or girl who fails to improve it sustains a loss which can never be recovered.

This age of preparation includes more than simply a knowledge of books, and the discipline of the school room; while these are important they represent but a part of the early training, so necessary to success in every calling.

Before the age of twenty the habits of life are largely formed, and these have much to do with the next season of opportunity which comes to young men and women when they stand on the threshold of active life with so much at stake, for success or failure depends largely on the wisdom displayed in selecting the proper channel of work.

If the boy approaches this period with a weakness for the cigarette or saloon, or if he has cultivated the habit of deception, and is known as a boy that will bear watching, he might as well pick up his shovel and settle down to the work of a day laborer, for nothing better will come to him in his journey through the second period of opportunity.

The world has a place for young men who have developed right habits of thinking and living, while yet in their teens, but it has neither the time nor disposition to correct bad habits.

The average young man decides on his life work between the ages of twenty and thirty, and before the latter age is reached he is usually so well established that changes are not considered.

If opportunities have been well improved advancement is sure to follow, and by the time middle life is reached he is either in charge of some responsible position, or working for himself on his own account. Of one thing he may be certain, and that is that he may not successfully change his occupation after he passes middle life.

The successful men in every calling today, with rare exception, are the men who have worked in the one familiar channel from the age of thirty-five on into life.

The question of old age is one of the serious questions, and while there is significance in the statement, "don't grow old before your time," there is also significance in the fact that old age is as certain to follow as life is to continue.

There is an army of men in this country today between the ages of sixty and seventy, who are on the ragged edge of poverty because they have failed to recognize the fact that old age has its limitations, and while the heart may be buoyant, and the mind active, yet they are forced to admit that powers of endurance are weakened, and younger men are needed to carry on the work.

These men come to realize, also, that they are not expected to take an active part in the busy life about them, and before they know it they are on the shelf.

The man past sixty, who keeps actively to the front, does so by persistent effort. He discovers that younger men are waiting to take his place, and is frequently forced to admit that they can perform his work better than he can do it himself.

The every day work of life is largely destitute of sentiment. The old engineer steps down from his cab and out. It is but little comfort for him to know that he is on the pension list, for he loved his work and when requested to make place for a younger man, the request came like a cruel blow, and yet he is compelled to admit that faculties are impaired and powers of endurance weakened.

The flight of time means, old age, and no power can prevent it. Happy are the men and women who can pass through the twilight of life with hearts and minds free from the ravages of time. The casket crumbles in spite of every precaution, but the jewels may be kept intact, and continue to grow in luster and beauty until finally released.

PRESS COMMENT.

Ubiquitous Sam Jones Again.
Exchange: Rev. Sam Jones, the noted evangelist, declares that "we need Bryan in our business." But as Rev. Mr. Jones is not a business man, strictly speaking, it is hard to see just where the application comes in, unless he hopes to see Mr. Bryan finally land in the ministry.

'Twill Not Go Down.
Appleton Post: Houser's further declaration that he knew nothing of the contents of the memorandum which he handed to Host by the request of Lobbyist Luscomb is extremely thin. The idea that such a foxy politician as Houser is was in such blissful ignorance is a morsel fit only for gudgeons to swallow.

Cliques Should Keep Hands Off.
Racine Journal: States with primary laws should compel all political organizations and committees to keep hands off making up slates, but what may be singular is that men meet earnest at first for such laws met the example of this state business.

Boom For Welles.
Fond du Lac Reporter: Democratic leaders in Outagamie county have started a boom for Congressman Welles for the democratic nomination for governor of Wisconsin this fall. They could go farther and fare worse. If Congressman Welles decides to become a candidate he will receive the hearty support of The Reporter, for there is no man in Wisconsin who would make a better standard bearer.

Wisconsin Manufactures.
Fond du Lac Bulletin: The manufacturing industries of Wisconsin are valued at something more than a half billion of dollars, and more than three-fourths of them have been built up during the past quarter of a century. What will be the value twenty-five years hence, or in 1931? Not less than $2,000,000,000, and the number of factories will reach 30,000. That is the Bulletin's estimate.

Would Emulate Janesville.
El Paso Herald: El Paso is big enough to own a police patrol wagon. There is no use in aldermen objecting to bills for lack hire, as long as the police have no public vehicle to carry drunken or unruly persons or injured persons. The public would be inclined to criticize the police for not hiring hacks, often, as some disgraced and humiliating sights have been seen on our streets that might have been spared the public view if an emergency wagon had been at call. A wagon should be purchased that would be suitable for an ambulance also. If the economy streak is particularly strong, it might even be provided that the fire chief should use the wagon to run to fires. The main thing is to have a hurry-up wagon, at police headquarters, ready to answer quick calls for any purpose at any hour of the day or night.

Being Fair To Nick.
Milwaukee Journal: "Princess Albus and Consort" is the way some of the English newspapers speak of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who are now in Europe, leading a champagne existence and shaking hands with kings just as easily as you would order pork chops from a butcher.

Geel! but that is mean.
It is hard enough for a man who has married a celebrity to go through life simply as his wife's husband, without having it rubbed in with the title of consort.

There was the lamented husband of Queen Victoria. He was a consort all right. He was endured. He was a good fellow, and the English people looked upon him as a sort of a tame cat and wanted to cut down his allowance because there didn't seem to be any very good reason why he should have money, his board and clothing being secure. He was loved most after he had passed away and merged into his children who are not consorts.

And it isn't fair to Nick.
He is somebody. He was just big enough to win the daughter of the most famous man in modern American life; big enough to get into congress and make himself heard there.
And he has been big enough to endure some very bad jokes at his expense, to laugh at sarcasm that was insulting, and to carry on his love-making in a mighty fine American fashion.

Just now he is on a vacation and he is enjoying it, and those who do not like it can do the other thing.
The Rake's Progress.
Milwaukee Sentinel: The fond and foolish mother of young Harry Thaw, family black sheep, spendthrift, moral degenerate, now a homicide, possibly a murderer with a prospect of the death chair at Sing Sing confronting him, must bitterly regret her misplaced indulgence.

After the elder Thaw in his will had tied down this young fool of vicious propensities to a modest allowance, the mother made him an equal sharer in the estate. Thus this illiterate rattlebrain with an earning capacity of $1 a day and a spending capacity of $1 a minute came to an annual income of $80,000.
Thereby hangs a tale, now to be blown abroad by the "million throat-cut press," of folly and extravagance, senseless luxury and Turkish sensuality, crazy, squandering and mad escapades.

What semblance of rational motive, what episode of disreputable intrigue, may lurk at the bottom of the story of the crime of Monday night, remains to be revealed. But the broad fact that now seems plain enough is that, record for record, the comparatively worthy and useful life was snuffed out, while the worse than worthless life remains.

Thaw's victim was at least a man of brains, culture, industry, public service. It is to be hoped the sequel will show no stain of character nor illustration of that "double life" we hear so much about.

As for Thaw, we shall now have set in the limelight of publicity, and kept there for weeks, probably months, one more "shocking example" of the idle and ignorant rich, a text for demagogues, a scandal to a social class whose shadow will fall undeservedly on many worthy people whose sole likeness to Thaw is the possession of wealth.

likewise, have that furnace put in during the warm weather when we have lots of time to do it.

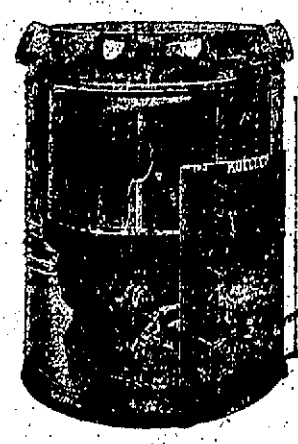

No other furnace on the market has such a record back of it for satisfactory service as the "MUELLER." The different parts are built in such form and shape as is best adapted to get the greatest efficiency and durability, the perfect proportioning of the grate area, heating surfaces, flues and air area.

Ask your neighbor who uses a "MUELLER" what he thinks of it. Your house will be heated better and with less coal by using a "MUELLER" than by any other hot air method.

The Mueller Double Radiator, All Blast Furnace, we specially recommend, as it stands in a class of its own. The castings are made extra heavy and we guarantee it to contain more direct Heating Surface than other makes, Burns hard coal, soft coal or coke.

The Mueller Return Flue, Sheet Steel Radiator-Furnace, is for hard coal, durable, powerful, economical—low in height, therefore well adapted to low basements.
We will be glad to take your order for cleaning and making any repairs necessary upon your furnace. Have it done before the rush of fall work begins.

END TOURNAMENT; GOLFERS DEPART

SMALL FIELD IN LADIES' CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST.

IN MADISON NEXT SUMMER

E. M. Fuller and Frank Jacobs of Madison Chosen President and Secretary of the Association.

Nineteen-Six Wisconsin State Golf Tourney has gone into history as one of the best ever held by the state association. As Hamilton Vose of Milwaukee, runner-up in the state championship series, said last evening: "I have attended many tournaments all over the country, but the Sinissippi Club has given the association the best tournament that has ever been held. It has been perfect in every detail and the golfers all over the state are enthusiastic over our treatment while in Janesville."

Go to Madison. As announced in the Gazette last night, Madison has invited the state association to hold their next tournament in Madison. At the meeting of the directors of the association last evening the invitation was accepted and next summer the contests will be held on the Maple Bluff Club's links near Senator La Follette's thirty-thousand-dollar summer home. Edward M. Fuller of Madison was elected president of the association and Frank Jacobs, secretary.

Ladies' Championship. To Mrs. Harris of Janesville belongs the title of the first lady state champion. This feature of the regular tournament will probably be followed out in future meets, as well as the fifty-year-old class. The final scores in the ladies' match play were:

Out, In, Tot.
Mrs. Arthur Harris, 57 56 113
Miss Katherine Fifield, 65 61 126
Miss Elizabeth Schickel, 64 67 131
Miss Belle MacLean, 70 65 135
Mrs. Frank Blodgett, 66 71 137
Mrs. Riley, Milwaukee, 70 71 141

Miss Marcia Jackman and Miss Mabel Jackman started, but did not finish, owing to the storm. In the contest between Mrs. Deering and Mrs. Page the scores were:

Out, In, Tot.
Mrs. Deering, 48 45 93
Mrs. Page, 50 53 103

Miss Katherine Fifield won the putting contest of thirty-six holes, open to all ladies, with a total score of 94.

NO ARRANGEMENTS FOR FOURTH GAME

As Yet Eagle and Red Sox Managers Have Nothing Scheduled For Day.

Despite the fact that neither the Eagles or Red Sox have as yet scheduled a game for the Fourth of July, that both teams are anxious to play together and that Janesville fans desire to see the two fight out the rivalry, no arrangements for a game here have been made. It is very probable that local enthusiasts will see a game here on the nation's birthday but such a contest is not yet assured. The Red Sox may possibly play at Edgerton.

Pecatonica Team Coming. The Pecatonica team, a well-known semi-professional aggregation, is on a tour of northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin and will play the Eagles here a week from tomorrow.

Shoe and Clothing Clerks. Arrangements being made by the clerks in the clothing and shoe stores of the city for a game of ball some afternoon in the near future on the supposition that the merchants can be induced to give them an afternoon off.

Golden Eagles to Play. Another Janesville team will meet the Afton Tigers at Afton tomorrow. This will be the Golden Eagle nine, captained by Otto Garry and managed by Harry Flynn. The battery consists of Flynn and Richter.

Eagles Go to Rockford. The Janesville Eagles will play a return game with the Rockford Eagles in the Forest City tomorrow. The contest here resulted in victory for the home team.

Red Sox and Clinton Maroons. Tomorrow afternoon's game at Eagle park, Fair Grounds, will be between the Red Sox and the Clinton Maroons. Nothing has thus far been heard of the Maroons this year but it is not likely that the good reputation of the Clinton team will suffer by the class of game it puts up tomorrow. The battery will be Blodgett and Lomitz. Clarke will twirl for the locals and Harris, of the Eagle team will play. Harris not being a member of F. O. E. is not qualified to play at Rockford.

Two Amateur Games. At Athletic park this afternoon the Y. M. C. A. and Parker Pen teams are playing, and the Lewis Knitting company and Gazette nines are crossing bats.

Indians Stars on Diamond

Noble Red Man Has a Natural Aptitude For Athletics—Bender, Oia Sockalexis, Leroy and Wahoo—The Creditable Record of Wilson Charles.

The noble red man of the plains and mountain fastnesses is out on the baseball warpath looking for gore. You can't keep the red man down so long as fire water is barred from the government reservations, and the way to which he is making headway in playing the national game is a new evidence of his athletic prowess.

Several full blooded "Injuns" are now playing in the big leagues, and

The Indians are taking to the game very generally, and there are some promising candidates for fast company now in the minor teams.

Wilson Charles, a full blooded Oneida, is the latest Carlisle Indian recruit to the pitching industry. He began that branch of the work a few years ago, but did not develop ability of a marked character till this season, when he surprised his mates by striking out sixteen men of Mount St. Mary's college recently.

Charles is also an all around athlete, playing football and other games. He has jumped 22 feet 6 inches, has a record of 10½ seconds for the high hurdles and various other accomplishments.

One of the Carlisle Indians who have achieved some distinction behind the bat is Wahoo, a Chippewa, who is also an athlete of varied accomplishments. This red man promises to cut a very important figure in the battery work of the diamond game in the future.

WAHOO, CHIPPEWA CATCHER.

This is quite appropriate, as he is the original inhabitant of the country and should be proficient in the national game.

Wilson Charles was born on the Oneida reservation in Wisconsin almost twenty-four years ago. Charles first attended the government's Indian school at Haskell, Neb., beginning his work there in 1890. Three years later his parents chose to send him to the famous Indian training school at Carlisle. Not until 1902 did he take any interest in athletics and, in fact, drifted into strenuous work because of his desire to see Carlisle represented on all athletic fields by a large number of contestants.

New York, Jan. 4th, 1906.

Lester Piano Co., 1308 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

ALFRED HERTZ.

Herr Hertz is the world's foremost exponent of grand opera.—A master of masters.—A critic of critics. He is the director of the company comprising the most famous singers and his judgment upon their efforts is final. No higher opinion than his concerning musical value can be obtained. It was only necessary that the LESTER PIANO should be brought to his attention to obtain that recognition which its merit demands and deserves. This is the kind of a piano that I desire to put in your home, one that appeals to the musician on account of the beautiful quality of its tone and the wonderful depth and singing power combined with a very light and flexible touch. Send for catalogue of the Lester from Herr Alfred Hertz. Pianos shipped direct from the factory to your home. Let me save you some money. Call up New Phone 775, or drop me a postal card for catalogue, asking me to call. Satisfaction guaranteed or no sale. Why not buy a Lester or any of the following world's famous makes, Newman Bros. JUST INSIDE THE LAW.

SOME people play dangerously close to a constable's warrant all the time, but keep a sharp eye on the dividing line. The same is true with some buggies—good enough to prevent legal action for recovery of money, and yet poor enough to cause grumbling as long as they last.

The out and out, up-to-the-mark sort costs no more and here is the mark of identification—WISCONSIN CARRIAGE CO.

This is a home product. You see the goods before you put your money up and are not buying a "pig in a poke." If you've any "kicks" or complaints to make after buying, we're here to hear them and make them right. No matter what price you want to pay, we can fit you out.
